

Another Bad Night for Mexico City

By STRATFORD C. Jones
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Sporadic violence continued in Mexico City Wednesday night as students burned more buses and reportedly shot at shopkeepers who wouldn't support their demands against the government. Unconfirmed reports said one person was killed and two were wounded when police came to the shopkeepers' rescue and exchanged fire with the students in the southeast part of the city. But the isolated skirmishes were nothing like the large-scale combat between students and police and soldiers Monday night and Tuesday, when 15 persons were killed. A police motorcycle was set afire near the Mexican Olympic committee headquarters, guarded by troops. Striking students also burned at least five buses and two street cars. Police meanwhile sought a mysterious group of thugs who roamed the streets on two previous nights, shooting up six schools and beating up students. One newspaper said a 28-year-old man told police of being kidnapped by members of a right-wing student group called MURO and threatened with death if he took part in the student demonstrations. Since July 26, the students have been striking and demonstrating to back up demands for a guarantee of university autonomy from government interference, firing of three top police officials, disbanding of the riot police and repeal of anti-subversion laws. President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz contends professional agitators and Communists are directing the demonstrators. The students have admitted that outsiders participated in their demonstrations but said efforts were being made to discourage them. Fearing that the students, in an attempt to gain concessions, would try to seize the Olympic Stadium on the national university campus before the opening of the 1968 Olympic Games Oct. 12, the government sent troops to occupy the campus Sept. 18. Two miles from the campus, about 2,000 athletes are at the Olympic Village training for the games. There has been no indication so far that unrest in the capital would force cancellation of the games, but it seems certain that many foreign spectators will cancel plans to attend. manians have been strengthening their forces along their borders with Communist countries, so much so that soldiers who usually help with the harvest are not available. This has worried university students, due back for the new term Oct. 1. "I may have to 'volunteer' for a couple of weeks work in the fields just then," one of them said. "Anyhow, they call it volunteering."

Living Costs Up .3 in August

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose three-tenths of 1 per cent last month, continuing 1968's sharpest price spiral in 17 years, the government reported today.

Big increases for food and housing caused most of the August rise which continued this year's jump in living costs at an annual rate of 4 per cent or more.

The latest jump boosted the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index to 121.9. This means it cost $12.19 last month for every $10 worth of goods and services in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported at the same time that average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank and file workers hit a record peak of $109.16, up 29 cents. But the rise in living costs more than wiped out the monthly wage gain.

cies the Soviets considered dangerous. Censorship was abolished. The possibility arose that non-Communist parties would be permitted to work freely. There was widespread sentiment for neutrality.

But Romania lives under a rigid Communist system. There are not even puppet non-Communist parties as there are in other East European countries.

Yet in his own way Ceausescu — just turned 50 — belongs to the new generation of liberalizers in the Communist world. Political prisoners seem to have been all released, and a great burden of fear has been lifted from the shoulders of the average Romanian.

"The Romanian is still wary of contact with foreigners," the diplomat said. "He gets told all the time that it's dangerous — the difference is now that he is

Portugal Changing Dictators

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
Associated Press Writer
LISBON (AP) — Dictator Antonio Salazar's replacement by Marcello Caetano is expected to bring little change immediately to Portugal's authoritarian system, but many expect Caetano to take a more liberal course later.

Reliable sources reported that President Americo Thomaz finally designated Caetano Wednesday to form a new government. A formal announcement of his appointment as prime minister was expected today. Portugal has not had a functioning government since a stroke brought the 79-year-old Salazar near death 10 days ago.

Caetano, a 62-year-old law professor, was for years one of Salazar's closest advisers and like him is considered ultraconservative. He also must satisfy the army's conservative leadership, so no change in the system is expected soon. But Caetano has traveled abroad and been exposed to much that never touched the hermit-like Salazar. Many expect this to result in the beginning of cautious liberal reforms if Caetano solidifies his hold on the government.

News of Caetano's designation as prime minister spread quickly through government circles, even though announcements that a statement by Thomaz was imminent were pulled out of Thursday morning newspapers before they went to press.

"Now there is no question any more of subservience," said one high official, referring to the power Salazar seemed to hold over his followers even as he lay in a coma.

Thomaz was reported reportedly unwilling to name a successor while Salazar lived because this would require dismissal of the man who formally headed the government for 36 years and controlled it since 1926. There was the question of whether Salazar might recover and react with displeasure at being replaced.

But Salazar's four doctors reported to Thomaz Wednesday. It was widely believed that they said: even if the premier lived on, his chances of recovering his faculties to any extent were infinitesimal.

What's Unusual, Wall Street Asks, About Man Looking at Girl?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — "If the guys in Wall Street are looking at bulls and bears all day," said the motivational psychologist, "why shouldn't they want to look at a pretty girl for a change? What's so unusual about that?"

Since this was little help in understanding why 10,000 clerks, bankers and brokers jammed Wall and Broad streets last week to view Francine Gottfried, who measures 43-25-37, the answer was sought in Wall Street itself.

The effort seemed to make sense because there are more analysts there than in Vienna, and though they aren't the "psycho" kind, they do spend their time analyzing aberrations and stocks and mass psychology.

Why did Wall Street go wild to see Francine, a 21-year-old computer attendant, emerge from the Brooklyn subway each day at 1:30 p.m.? The question was put to a dozen men in the area.

"They were just letting off steam," a New York Stock Exchange man said. "This has been a busy year, there's been lots of tension and people here are in high key. They're all geared up."

Said another man, "This is the way the Street works. Look, the news spread like a stock tip: the word was passed by phone, the figures were exaggerated — you know, we were told she was a 48 — and almost everyone found out that hundreds were in the news before they were."

The same thing happened on a much smaller scale a couple of years ago, he said, when a lot of clerks sought inspiration for the day in ogling a pretty girl at her 9:45 coffee break at Broad and Beaver, before heading on to their jobs.

Observed a man whose office overlooks Broad and Wall, where the crowds gathered, "It was a pleasant, friendly crowd. They were just having fun. Nobody was down there hating or picketing or even angry."

From his vantage point he estimated that the crowd exceeded that for the celebration last year of the Exchange's 175th anniversary, but Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Mayor John V. Lindsay were the type against debate-limiting cloture. He called this a rock-bottom figure that could climb to more than a majority when the show-down comes, probably the first of next week.

To put the cloture rule into effect takes a two-thirds majority of senators voting.

Baker talked with newsmen before starting off a second day of Senate debate with a lengthy speech urging rejection of President Johnson's nomination to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., appealed to members, "Whether for or against Mr. Fortas, to accord the Senate as a whole the courtesy of allowing us to place the nomination before the Senate on the basis of a favorable report issued by the Committee on the Judiciary."

But Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., promptly commented: "I respectfully disagree."

"It has been many, many decades since there has been any kind of a review here of the decisions, policies and philosophies of members of the Supreme court of the United States," Stennis said.

Although the Senate leaders didn't label Wednesday's debate a filibuster, there was little doubt it was on when Michigan Republican Robert P. Griffin, a leader of the opposition to Fortas, held the floor for two hours and 40 minutes.

Griffin zeroed in on Fortas' acceptance of a $15,000 fee to conduct a university law seminar, calling it "clearly wrong in principle."

The debate so far isn't directly on Fortas' nomination to succeed Earl Warren, but on a motion by Mansfield to bring it up for debate.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., leading the fight for confirmation, said that if a filibuster against just the preliminary motion cannot be broken "we might as well give up."

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Some new television series can start with what the producer believes is the best and most interesting of the shows completed. Others — and ABC's "Here Come the Brides" on Thursday night was one — have to start at the beginning.

The idea is to set the scene, establish the mood and clue the audience on the motives that will provide scripts for 13 weeks or 13 years, depending on its reception.

In the case of the new ABC entry, having to start at the beginning worked a hardship on all concerned, including the audience. In one hour we met the three heroes of the series, the brothers Belt who own timber land in post-Civil War Washington territory; were introduced to the resident heavy who runs the saw mill; glimpsed hordes of woman-hungry lumberjacks and, ultimately a bevy of beautiful girls who were being imported from New England to become the brides.

This taxed the 60 minutes but maybe the show will shake down enough to give viewers brave enough to return a chance to see its form and substance, if any.

Bob Denver, the lanky fellow from "Gilligan's Island," came back on CBS with another half-hour comedy series, "The Good Guys." If one finds Denver a funny fellow and if one thinks that being squirted on the head with cherry syrup is hilarious, "The Good Guys" will be the show for them.

Bob Hope returned for another season of comedy specials on NBC and his first show was devoted, naturally, to the political scene.

Hope's monologue was a swift succession of one-line cracks that were directed impartially at both major parties and their candidates.

The body of the program, a switch in its usual format, was one long sketch—about politics, of course. Hope played a cab driver who looked like a presidential aspirant, summoned when the real politician cracked up and thought he was a ukelele player named Wee Willie.

Even for Hope, it wasn't much of a sketch, but it gave him a chance to make some more breezy jokes and to bring on a lot of pretty girls, from Zsa Zsa Gabor and Cyd Charisse to Angie Dickinson and Vikki Carr.

Recommended tonight: "The Ugly Girl in Town," premiere, ABC, 7:30-8 EDT, London-made comedy series about an American boy who accidentally becomes the towns top girl model; "Blonde," premiere, CBS, 7:30-8, Will Hutchins and Patricia Harty in a TV adaptation of the comic strip; "Hawaii Five-O," premiere, CBS, 8-9, police action shot on location in the islands, with Jack Lord; "Journey to the Unknown," premiere, ABC, 10-11, British-made suspense-horror anthology series starting with a story about a man in love with a mannequin in a store window.

until the North Vietnamese broke contact.

The tanks, armored personnel carriers and infantry came on enemy positions again Wednesday about 11:15 a.m. The armor and infantry attacked behind a hail of artillery and aerial explosives which broke up the North Vietnamese formations.

The armor and infantrymen pursued the retreating North Vietnamese and caught up with them again in the afternoon. Fighting continued until about 6 p.m. when the North Vietnamese succeeded in pulling away again.

Meanwhile, U.S. Marines of the 3rd Division continued their sweep in and below the central sector of the demilitarized zone and reported turning up another enemy cache containing 195 rockets and 141 antitank mines.

U.S. Headquarters said the Marines in their three-week-old sweep have turned up nearly 40 tons of munitions and other supplies which the North Vietnamese had stockpiled for another offensive in South Vietnam's northernmost provinces.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported that enough enemy equipment had been found elsewhere this month to equip 50 enemy battalions, or about 15,000 men.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS BUT HIS OWN—AND HIS WIFE'S

Dear Helen: I work as a secretary for a very nice man in a high position with a corporation. He treats me with respect, is kind and considerate.

He is married and has a family.

He also has a "friend" who calls him at least six times a day. I presume he calls her just as often. I know there must be something between them.

The "other" girls in the office know about this since they have answered these calls when I have been away. They ask me how I can have any respect for my boss, but I answer this is his personal business and none of mine. I still admire him as a good executive and a wonderful employer. Am I wrong? — BROADMINDED SECRETARY

Dear Secretary: No. You're right!

A good secretary does not speculate on her boss's private affairs, and if she does, she should give him the benefit of the doubt. Have you considered that this caller might be one of those "helpless" relatives or clients who drive businessmen crazy? A "friend" wouldn't telephone a married man at his office six times a day not if she wanted to keep him.

Dear Helen: Every time I pull a goof and my parents find out, they always say, "I could have told you it wouldn't work!" or something similar. Which makes me feel even more stupid.

They keep telling me I should make my own decisions, but when I do, and they bomb, it's almost as if my folks were glad. Here's an example, not the biggest: I bought a size-14 pattern, which is what I have always taken, but I didn't see it was the "new sizing," so of course the dress I made was too big. When my mother saw the pattern, she pointed to the "New Sizing" label with "I could have told you that!" As if I was too dumb to read.

Why must parents be so darn superior? — INFERIOR AND NOT LOVING IT

Dear IANLI: You've pinpointed parents. If we don't say "I told you THAT," it's because we're exercising great self-restraint.

We want you to become independent, true, but we hate to admit you no longer need us. So when you goof, it makes us feel important again as if we were still "in charge." You won't fully understand this until you have teens of your own, and then I hope you remember back and do some fancy tongue-biting. I've had to, many a time, and I still can't entirely control the "smug mother" syndrome. — H.

Dear Helen: I am 18 and very fond of a girl of 16. However, she says she can't go with me because she is involved with a friend of the family who is 23 and married. She babysits for this man at least once a week, and he makes his play for her when he drives her home at night. She knows she has made a mistake and wants to end it, but she doesn't want to hurt him. He tells her she is all he lives for.

Should I tell her parents, or try to talk her into giving up her job—and the man? She says she's anxious to quit, but she always gets talked out of it. — CORNERED

Dear Cornered: Tell this foolish little girl she must either

Pope at 71 Faces Crisis and Revolt

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI turned 71 today facing the most serious challenge to papal authority in modern times.

Instead of unquestioning obedience to Pope Paul's ban on artificial methods of contraception, numerous priests, theologians and even some bishops are advising married couples to do as their conscience tells them.

Other bishops are suspending priests who take issue with the papal ban. Laymen and priests in Chile staged a sit-in in a cathedral. Public opinion polls show that a majority of Catholics in Britain won't observe the ban.

Paul, the 262nd pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church, came to a turning point of his reign when he pushed aside the advice of the majority on a birth control commission he had appointed and issued his encyclical reaffirming the Church stand against contraception.

Since the encyclical "Humanae Vitae" (On Human Life) came out in July, the pontiff has been besieged by an unrelenting storm of opposition from all over the world.

The wave of opposition has been so massive in the ranks of the Church itself that bishops all over the world rushed to message statements of loyalty to the Pope.

The turmoil has obviously caused anxiety and grief to Pope Paul, who has often been reported brought to the point of tears by the formidable problems confronting his Church. Nearly every week he has defended his birth control stand.

The uproar is a boon to the conservatives of the Vatican Curia, giving them new arguments against progressive theology as a danger to Church unity and papal authority.

The Pope's recurrent statements urging Catholics to heed his contraception ban have an inevitable ring of condemnation for advocates of changes. Significantly, it became known this week that the Vatican Congregation of the Doctrine of the Faith is conducting an investigation into the writings of the Rev. Eduard Schillebeeckx, the Dutch theologian who has spearheaded Catholic progressive thinking in Holland and north-west Europe.

In a return to methods prevalent before the second Vatican Ecumenical Council, the Congregation is making its investigation secretly, without even notifying Father Schillebeeckx.

Injunction Halts G. & F. Ouster Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A temporary injunction was issued Wednesday to stop ouster hearings scheduled next Tuesday for two members of the state Game and Fish Commission.

Chancellor Kay Matthews of Little Rock scheduled a hearing for Oct. 8 to determine whether his order should be made permanent.

The injunction came in the cases which Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller is attempting to oust commission members Newt Halley of Rogers and Ernest Hogue of Wiener. A third commission member, Raymond Farris of Biscoe, also is facing ouster charges.

The governor has charged each with misconduct in office. Matthews, following a 90-minute hearing, also temporarily enjoined the governor from making any determination of guilt on the part of Halley or Hogue for failure to answer a request for admissions submitted by the governor's evidence officer, H.W. McMillan.

Sam Robinson of Little Rock, attorney for Hogue, said the request for admissions were worded so that a positive answer could be construed as being a confession to committing a crime. Gene Worsham of Little Rock, Halley's attorney, agreed.

One charge faced by both men is use of the commission's airplane to go on a hunting trip to Colorado.

"I don't think it's a crime to go hunting while on a trip," but the governor says it is," Worsham said.

Edwin Wright of Little Rock, Rockefeller's attorney, said the requests from the commissioners for injunctions was "a piecemeal effort to buy time."

Matthews said there had been many charges of delaying tactics in the case. "However, this court will move it along. It will not linger in this court."

Rockefeller has named two lawyers, Courtney Crouch of Springdale and Heartsill Ragon of Fort Smith, to serve as a hearing panel for him. Attorneys for the commissions argue that Rockefeller has no right to designate others to conduct the hearing.

Rockefeller also has said he will make a ruling in the case based on the record from the hearings. Robinson questioned whether Rockefeller would read the hearings' record.

"It would be a big record," Robinson said. "He (Rockefeller) probably wouldn't read it. My opinion is he's already got his mind made up on this matter."

Wright said Robinson's charge that the governor would not read the hearing record was a "violate assumption unwarranted by the facts of law."

No Bombing Halt for Humphrey

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says he would urge a halt to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if he thought it would help the peace talks—regardless of what (President Johnson) likes."

But the Democratic presidential candidate said Wednesday he can see no such result from an immediate bombing halt and so will make some of his friends unhappy by refusing to call for one.

Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon, meanwhile, said the Republicans have been "the peacekeepers, not just the peace talkers"—both at home and abroad.

Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration ended the Korean War and kept the nation out of others for eight years, Nixon said in Denver. And he said "we did not have this problem of violence and fear" at home then.

Nixon told his cheering supporters the Democratic record is one that will inspire a peaceful revolution at the polls Nov. 5 that will elect him president.

But Nixon is apparently scaling down—in recognition of a growing threat from third party candidate George C. Wallace—a prior assessment that he would carry all southern border states.

He told newsmen he now counts only Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia as being safely in his column, and said he thinks he has a chance of carrying North Carolina, Georgia and Texas.

Humphrey's comment that he would not recommend a North Vietnam bombing halt as some friends advise came in a television interview in Los Angeles.

Humphrey also urged both his presidential opponents, Nixon and Wallace, to join him in a cross-country debating tour in the style of the Lincoln-Douglas debates more than a century ago.

Humphrey said he was willing to start the series of local debates wherever Nixon likes. He noted the Lincoln-Douglas debates also came at a time of national crisis, just before the civil war.

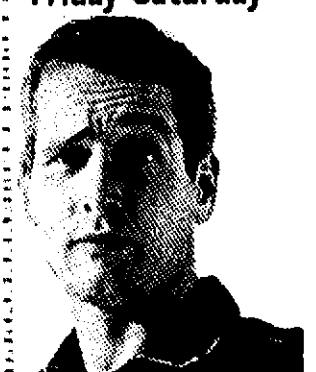

Humphrey's running mate, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, turned a new tactic on hecklers Wednesday—challenging them to get up on his platform and list their complaints.

There was no response from demonstrators in Detroit but in Washington, Pa., protesters pushed a speaker to the platform, he said demonstrators were "dissatisfied with LBJ. We're here to make our voices heard."

Gibson and McLain Hold Series Key

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — More than anything else, the outcome of the 1968 World Series is likely to depend on the confrontations between ace pitchers Bob Gibson of St. Louis and Denny McLain of Detroit.

The two are virtually certain to meet in the first game in St. Louis next Wednesday. They will probably clash again in the fourth game, scheduled for Detroit on Sunday, Oct. 6. And, if there is a seventh game, there is little doubt that they would pitch against each other for the third time.

Statistically, through Monday's games, the Cards' staff has the edge over the Tigers'. St. Louis pitchers have compiled an over-all 2.44 earned run average with 61 complete games and 29 shutouts. Detroit hurlers have combined for a 2.68 ERA, 59 complete games and 19 shutouts.

The Cards' advantage, though, seems to be more pronounced in the bullpen than among the starters. Lefty Joe Hoerner, 8-2, and right-hander Ron Willis, 2-3, give St. Louis a strong tandem.

Except for Don McMahon, 3-1, and John Wyatt, 2-4, the Tigers' bullpen lacks experience. Pat Dobson, 5-6, and Fred Lasher, 5-1, are in their second year. Jon Warden, 4-1, and Daryl Patterson, 2-3, are rookies.

McMahon, John Miller, 9-6, and Joe Sparma, 10-10, will probably do most of the relieving. Sparma, who started in 30 of the 33 games in which he's appeared, is likely to be the long reliever.

The starting pitcher matchups figure to go this way:

First Game—McLain, 31-6, against Gibson, 21-9.

Second Game—Mickey Llicha, Detroit, 16-9, against Nelson Briles, St. Louis, 18-11.

Third Game—Earl Wilson, Detroit, 13-12, against Ray Washburn, St. Louis, 13-7.

There is a tendency to lean toward Gibson in his meetings with McLain because his fastball is more overpowering. The Tigers' star changes speeds more often.

Because McLain has worked more often than Gibson—43 games and 329 innings to 34 games and 295 2-3 innings—several of Denny's figures are more impressive from their won-lost records on down.

McLain has also more complete games, 28 to 26, and strikeouts, 276 to 257. Gibson leads in shutouts, 12 to 6; and earned run average, 1.16 to 1.97. In addition, the husky Cards' ace has yielded only 11 homers while McLain has given up 31.

Lolich had a 3.13 earned run mark with eight complete games in 30 starts, 62 walks and 190 strikeouts. Wilson, a 22-game winner in 1967, has a 2.87 ERA, 10 complete games in 32 starts, 61 bases on balls and 157 strikeouts.

Briles' ERA is 2.76. He has gone the distance 13 times in 32 starts, walked 54 and fanned 136. Washburn has a 2.28 earned run mark, seven complete games in 28 starts, 43 walks and 115 strikeouts.

Clay Hopes to Fight in Exhibition

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay hopes to fight a 15-round exhibition bout here Nov. 11.

Promoters William Holloway and Bill Cummings Jr., both of Columbus, announced Wednesday that the match will be held in the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

They said Clay's opponent will be selected after two 10-round bouts in New York's Madison Square Garden tonight.

In those matches, Manuel Ramos, Mexican heavyweight king, opposes George Chuvalo, 31-year-old Canadian champ from Toronto, and James "Woody" New York meets Buster Mathis of Grand Rapids, Mich., who boasts a 27-1 record, including 19 knockouts.

Clay, who prefers to be known as Muhammad Ali, was stripped of his heavyweight title after he was convicted on a charge of draft evasion.

Rose, Alou Tied for NL Bat Honors

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
True to tradition, the National League has a down-to-the-wire race again this season.

It's not in the standings where the St. Louis Cardinals long ago wrapped things up, but in the batting race, where Pete Rose thought he had things wrapped up.

Rose, Cincinnati's sparkplug leadoff man, and Pittsburgh's Matty Alou remained tied for the batting lead today with only the final weekend of the season remaining.

Both are at .332 after going 0-for-4 against each other in Cincinnati's 3-0 victory over Pittsburgh Wednesday night.

In other National League action Wednesday, Chicago rallied on Ron Santo's ninth inning grand slam homer to beat Los Angeles 4-1. New York blanked Atlanta 3-0. Houston shaded San Francisco 3-2 and St. Louis topped Philadelphia 5-4.

In the American League, Cleveland shut out New York 3-0, Boston blanked Washington 1-0, Detroit edged Baltimore 4-3, Oakland edged Chicago 5-4 and Minnesota turned back California 5-2.

Both Rose and Alou are slap hitters and they were out of style Wednesday night. All of Cincinnati's runs came on homers—two by Mack Jones and one by Lee May.

Jim Maloney fired a two-hitter at the Pirates, striking out 11.

Nelson Briles snapped the Cardinals' longest losing streak of the season at five games, driving in two runs and scoring another in St. Louis' victory over Philadelphia.

Briles, who won his 19th game, singled one run across in the third and doubled the tying run home in the fifth.

New York's Tom Seaver pitched a three-hitter, shutting out the Braves for his 16th victory of the year.

Bob Aspromonte's seventh-inning single snapped a tie and Houston edged San Francisco and Juan Marichal.

Storm Over Brundage Evaporates

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — The controversy over what Avery Brundage did or did not say about sending demonstrating athletes home from the Olympic Games seems to have quieted down almost as quickly as it appeared.

Athletes at this high-altitude Olympic training camp who early in the week were calling for Brundage's resignation as president of the International Olympic Committee, agreed Wednesday it was all a misunderstanding.

Stan Wright, Negro assistant Olympic track coach, said he had spoken with Brundage by phone and had been assured by the 81-year-old IOC head that his statements about demonstrators had not been meant to apply just to American Negroes.

"We cannot afford to go to Mexico City as a half-black or half-white team. We're going as an American team," he said.

Gil Hodges III, But to Resume Post

ATLANTA (AP) — Gil Hodges, manager of the New York Mets, was reported to be resting well Wednesday night after doctors confirmed that he had suffered a minor heart attack.

Earlier, Dr. Linton Bishop, a heart specialist, said Hodges had experienced "a small coronary thrombosis," but was in good condition and would be able to resume his managerial duties in the future.

Buckaroos Tough Foe for Bobcats

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Bobcat Head Coach Ronnie Higgins termed it perfectly on the first page of the team's scouting report for this week. It said, "Let's Beat Smackover!"

It's going to be an uphill fight though, and all the cards except for team personnel are presently stacked up against Hope. Just for an example, the Bobcats will be going without senior tackle and noseman Mickey Allen, who injured his knee last week against DeQueen. Allen still was quite lucky, because any greater lick in that spot would have put him out for the season. As it is, Mickey should be at full speed against Malvern next week.

To describe the Battlin' Bucks in one word is quite easy, believe it or not. Tough. They may have a new head coach, and they may be short on size and experience; nevertheless, they still are tough. They have built up some winning spirit with a 2-1 record so far, and besides the bitterness of the rivalry the large fact looms that this is Homecoming Day for Smackover, or the day with something to win for.

That new head coach is Don Crews, who succeeds fairly successful James Lemley. He has introduced an offense very similar to the one Hope employed the first half of last season, being the old Texas Winged-T with a flip-flop on the offensive line. By definition, the flip-flop means that the strong side line-men always line up to the side of the wingback, and the weak side men are away from the concentration of men.

At weakside end is Alva Lotz, a 155-pound senior who started last year and was a good receiver. Last year Mike Holloway threw him the passes, but David Chenoweth might be just as good. At the strong side end slot is Glenn Jackson, and unproven 150-pound senior Glynn Thomas on the weak junior.

The Bucks are strong around the tackles, with the squad's biggest man, Lester Murph (190), on the strong side, and 175-pound senior Glynn Thomas on the weak side. Murph started on defense last year, while Thomas started the last couple of games at offensive tackle.

More size is needed at the guard positions, as those who are slated to start may have a tough time dealing with the Bobcats' big linebackers. At the weakside is Harry Dees, a 145-pound junior who is in his first experience as a first-teamer. On the other side is a little boy, Stanley Etheridge (145), with a big name. Etheridge also hasn't played before this season.

At center Crews has fine one in David Wilkie, who started at defensive linebacker as a junior last year and now is going both ways as a center. Thus the line is only adequately experienced with about as much size, and nothing impressive among the reserves.

In the backfield, senior David Chenoweth (155) moves into the No. 1 slot vacated by All-Stater Mike Holloway, who could run, pass, kick, and maybe even stand on his head. Chenoweth isn't as much of a running threat as Holloway by a long shot, but his passing is quite sufficient.

Should the passing game falter, as it always has against Hope, then the Buckaroos have some tough-running backs, as they always have against Hope anyway. The tailback is 175-pound senior Martin Phillips, who made a name for himself last year. At wing back is Jimmy Don Holloway, Mike's little brother, and Although Jimmy Don only weighs 130 pounds, he has the quickness to break in an open field. At fullback is burly Butch Wilkins, a 175-pound soph who was the state champion in the junior high shot put last spring and is hard as granite.

An that's the offense which, if it follows its usual stratagem for Hope, will toss away a good passing attack and revert to good hard man-power. Their defense, though, just might make the game more wide open.

This year Smackover has changed its defensive alignment from the old 5-3-3 setup to the more popular Arkansas monster-type way. This is the same defense Hope runs, so the old blocking rules for the Bobcats will not have to be changed.

At the two defensive ends are offensive ends Lotz and Jackson, but their going both ways at such crucial positions could open up the outside for Hope's power sweeps and reverses late in the game. At the tackle spots are Murph and Jimmy Cook, a big 175-pound sophomore who is a future college prospect.

Wilkins and Wilkie will gather at the linebackers around nose-man Jim Butler, and they will blitz the passer more than any normal team would. Again, though, this could account for weariness toward the end, Butler, the man in the middle, is a 155-pound senior who hasn't started before this year.

In monster man John Henry Tatum the Bucks have a real good one, and Tatum is fast enough (10.3 in the 100) to overtake runners from the opposite side of the field. A good-sized junior at 160 pounds, John Henry is also valuable on pass coverage and kick returns.

Back in the secondary, Holloway will start at the right-half position, with senior squad man Randy Burson (150) on the other side. At safety is soph Benny Brian (145), who has shown up quite well thus far.

And that's a brief look at the Smackover Battlin' Bucks, who will be on the other side of the line come tomorrow night. Their game plan likely will be to come out throwing, trying to build up an early lead. Then they plan to break down Bobcat resistance while they are getting tired themselves. The Bucks are the long shot in this one, and it should be a Doneybrook between two clubs counting on a must victory.

429-Game Basketball Schedule

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The American Basketball Association league office Wednesday announced a 429-game schedule for the 1968-69 season.

The league schedule opens Oct. 18 with Oakland playing at Indiana, league leaders in attendance last season, and continues until April 3.

The season opener has been pushed back a week later this year, and the schedule stretches a week longer into 1969.

Playoffs will probably continue into May.

The ABA's Eastern Division will be comprised of the Minnesota Pipers, Kentucky Colonels, Indiana Pacers, New York Mets and Miami Floridians.

Growing pains following the initial season saw franchise shifts of the Minnesota Muskies to Miami, the Pipers moved into the vacated spot in the Twin Cities, and Arkadelphia has won the last three meetings against the kittens.

They both have beaten Prescott, Hope by 25-0 and Arkadelphia by 18-0, but that is no sufficient means of comparison. There will be some sufficient means, however, after about two quarters of playing each other. And it you don't have anything on the agenda, head on up to Arkadelphia and give the Bobkittens some support as they try to go undefeated for the first time in eight years.

Pro Golf Marks Time on Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP) — The International Golf Sponsors Association stood by today anxiously and hopefully awaiting any results of its latest last ditch effort to settle the feud between the tour golfers and the Professional Golfers Association.

A source close to the meeting between the three groups Wednesday felt progress was made between the sponsors and the PGA, but that any progress with the players was restricted by a court restraining order issued against the players Wednesday.

The PGA again agreed to an earlier proposal for a committee composed of members of the three groups with complete authority to run the tour.

Although the earlier proposal was rejected by the players, the sponsors are hopeful the players will reconsider the proposal or come up with a similar suggestion that can be negotiated.

Although Sam Gates, attorney for the players, said he would discuss with the players what went on at the meeting, he said he would take no definite proposal back to them.

A main reason the players turned down the first committee proposal was because it included having sponsors on the committee to run the multi-million dollar tour.

The PGA currently sets tour policies. The players feel they should have a greater voice in those policies and have threatened to set up their own tour. With that in mind, they formed the American Professional Golfers Association.

ers that includes the top name players on the tour. The sponsors, meanwhile, are caught in the middle, being forced to choose between the two groups if no settlement is reached.

Adding to problems involved in a solution is a temporary restraining order obtained Wednesday by the PGA against the APG.

Grid Stars Demand Long Contracts

By MIKE RATHER Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — In the tough, violent world of professional football it's just possible that the top stars are draping themselves with a form of security blanket—the long term contract.

While contract terms for players usually are not revealed, it is becoming increasingly apparent—or there is more publicity being given to the fact—that the top stars in the National and American football leagues have been negotiating multi-year pacts.

That became evident again this week when the New York Jets, who reportedly have signed quarterback Joe Namath to a three- or five-year contract in the $500,000 area, had to dish out a two-year contract for a total in the $70,000 neighborhood to running back Matt Snell.

Many clubs are reluctant to discuss the subject but the NFL's Dallas Cowboys report they have about half the players on their squad working under multiple-year terms, including quarterbacks Don Meredith, Craig Morton and Jerry Rhome, who have three-year pacts.

"Both the club and the players like the multi-year contract idea," said Assistant General Manager Al Ward. "There is a definite trend toward it."

"The club realizes it takes happy players to make a team."

The NFL's Cleveland Browns revealed that 13 players on their 40-man roster have long-term contracts. Running back Leroy Kelly is working on the first year of a four-year contract at about $70,000 a year.

The Washington Redskins of the NFL have about a dozen players on contracts ranging from two to three years. This does not include quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, personally signed by club President Edward Bennett Williams and reportedly in the third year of a five-year pact.

The reasoning behind multi-year contracts has two viewpoints—the players' and management's.

On the player's side, he has the security of knowing what he will be making in the years ahead, although he is forfeiting his opportunity to reap the benefits of an outstanding season that occurs during the length of his contract.

"With a long term contract, the players are more relaxed and feel they can make home purchases," said Dallas' Ward. One management said, it seems to be easier in these days

San Diego No. 1 Among Small Fry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The San Diego State Aztecs, kings of the small-college football world the last two seasons, are at it again this year. They lead the first Associated Press weekly poll of the 1988 campaign by a hefty margin.

The Aztecs, winners over Texas-Arlington 23-18 and Northern Illinois 40-21 in their only starts, collected 12 first-place votes and 256 points in the balloting by a regional panel of 16 sports writers and broadcasters. San Diego State placed first in the final 1988 and 1987 AP polls.

The Eastern Kentucky Colonels, who crushed Hillsdale 63-0 in their opener last Saturday, hold the runner-up position with 144 points, including one first-place vote.

North Dakota State, runner-up to San Diego State in last year's final poll, is third this week with 108 points. State is 2-0 on victories over the Omaha branch of the University of Nebraska and South Dakota State.

Lenoir Rhyne, which beat Wofford 14-6 in its opener last Saturday, is fourth. Akron, 2-0, is fifth followed by Texas-Arlington, Northern Michigan, Central Michigan, Fairmont, W. Va., and Texas A&I.

Northern Michigan, unbeaten, has scored 140 points in three victories.

Tennessee A&I State heads up the Second Ten. Then come Weber State, New Mexico Highlands, Western Kentucky, Louisiana Tech, Wittenberg and West Chester. Eastern Michigan and Eastern Washington are in an 18th place deadlock and Carson-Newman completes the rankings in 20th position.

of testy contract battles to satisfy a player with a multi-year contract, which not only give the player security but generally doesn't carry large built-in raises.

Hope Picked 13-7 Over Smackover

By HARRY KING Associated Press Writer LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The preliminary fights are over. It's time for the main events. No more toying with an opponent, just toe-to-toe slugging, Friday night when six of the state's top seven high school teams collide.

Top-ranked Fort Smith Northside plays Pine Bluff in a Class AAAA conference game. The Zebras are tied with Conway for sixth in The A Associated Press Arkansas high school ratings.

The Zebras have won three games by less than a total of 20 points. The Grizzlies, on the other hand, have scored more than 80 points and are unscathed.

Pine Bluff coach Jack Robey says a meeting between the Grizzlies and the Zebras always results in a "real blood-letting." This figures to be another in a series.

Culp Hurls 4th Straight Shutout

By ED SCHUYLER Jr. Associated Press Sports Writer Ray Culp is providing the Boston Red Sox with some very happy moments, a la Jim Lonborg, and he soon will be giving them some very anxious moments a la Jim Lonborg—he plans to ski in the off-season.

Culp brought another smile to the faces of the Boston brass Wednesday night when he beat Washington 1-0 for his fourth straight shutout.

But the smiles must turn to frowns, accompanied by a few shudders, when the Red Sox management thinks of Culp's plans to ski, even if it will be on water and not on snow.

Lonborg went skiing on snow last winter and suffered a knee injury. His record this season is 9-11 compared to 22-0 when he helped the Red Sox into the World Series last year.

Culp's latest victory, his 16th against five losses, kept Boston in a third-place tie with Cleveland, which beat the New York Yankees 3-0 behind Luis Tiant's one-hit pitching.

In other American League action, Detroit edged Baltimore 4-3 on Gates Brown's three-run homer in the ninth, Oakland shaded the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Minnesota beat California 5-2.

St. Louis nipped Philadelphia 5-4, Cincinnati blanked Pittsburgh 3-0, the New York Mets took Atlanta 3-0, Houston edged San Francisco 2-1 and the Chicago Cubs downed Los Angeles 4-1 in the National League.

Tiant gave up a single to Mickey Mantle in the first inning and then retired 18 in a row in one stretch as he boosted his record to 21-9. Jose Cardenal scored twice for Cleveland, singling and coming home on Duke Sims' double in the third and doubling and scoring on Dave Nelson's triple in the seventh.

Tom Phoebus was working on a five-hitter against Detroit and had one out in the ninth. Jim Northrup then singled, Norm Cash reached base on Don Buford's error and bbrovwn followed with his homer, Bill Freehan of Detroit set an American League record when he was hit by a pitch for the 24th time.

Oakland tied Chicago in the ninth on Jim Pagliaroni's RBI single and then won it in the same inning when pinch runner John Odom scored on Danny Cater's bunt single with two out. The White Sox got four runs in the fourth, two on a throwing error by pitcher Jim Hunter.

Harmon Killebrew hit two homers, good for three runs and rookie Graig Nettles set up one with a triple and singled in another to pace Minnesota over California.

Broyles Gloomy on Tulsa

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Wednesday "things don't look too good" as the Razorbacks prepared for Saturday's game against Tulsa. "We're confused. We didn't know what to do," Broyles said at the conclusion of Wednesday's 1 1/2-hour practice. "We don't know anything about Tulsa's offense or defense." He said the practice was not as good as he had hoped. Tailback Russell Condy of Russellville suffered a leg injury in Wednesday's practice, but the extent of the injury was not known.

High Road Trail Ridge, which runs from the village of Estes Park to Grand Lake, Colo., through Rocky Mountain National Park, is the highest continuous highway in the United States.

We watched today's hand played seven times in the nationwide charity game. Three times the bidding went as shown in the box with South making exactly three diamonds.

On three other occasions North passed the heart opening. Each time East reopened with one spade. One West merely bid two spades and East played in a part score, the other two Wests jumped to three and East continued to game. A diamond was opened at all tables, not that it mattered except to simplify East's problem. He ruffed his second diamond and wound up making five odd.

We hate to print this hand because it shows a bad bid which is rewarded. Long experience has shown that a pass with the North hand will be the best action, but experience is based on averages and this hand weights the averages the wrong way.

Why did we spend so much time watching this one hand? When we watched it the first time something really extraordinary happened. West doubled South's opening heart bid. It turned out that West had learned the Culbertson system back in 1932. In his version of the system, you doubled to show an opening bid.

After West's double there was no problem getting to the spade game and making that easy overtrick.

The bid succeeded this time but we won't endorse it. In fact we want to take a strong stand against it. Most of the time this sort of double produces a diamond response from partner and the doubler has nowhere to go except into trouble.

This sort of double also frequently gets your opponents off the hook. If you stay out of the bidding they go merrily ahead into trouble. If you bid, you warn them.

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2♦	Pass	2♠
Pass	3♦	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♥	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠AQ876 ♥AK9543 ♦2 ♣A2

What do you do now?

Pass. You have shown your hand. If you want to try a slight overbid, go to five hearts but do so at your own risk.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three clubs your partner jumps to four hearts over you two spades. What do you do now?

Titan 3 Blasts Off to Satellite

By JIM STROTSMAN
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A Titan 3 rocket today orbited four military research satellites and sped them toward lofty outposts. One of the payloads, an experimental tactical communications craft, could hasten the day when battlefield troops can talk among themselves via satellite.

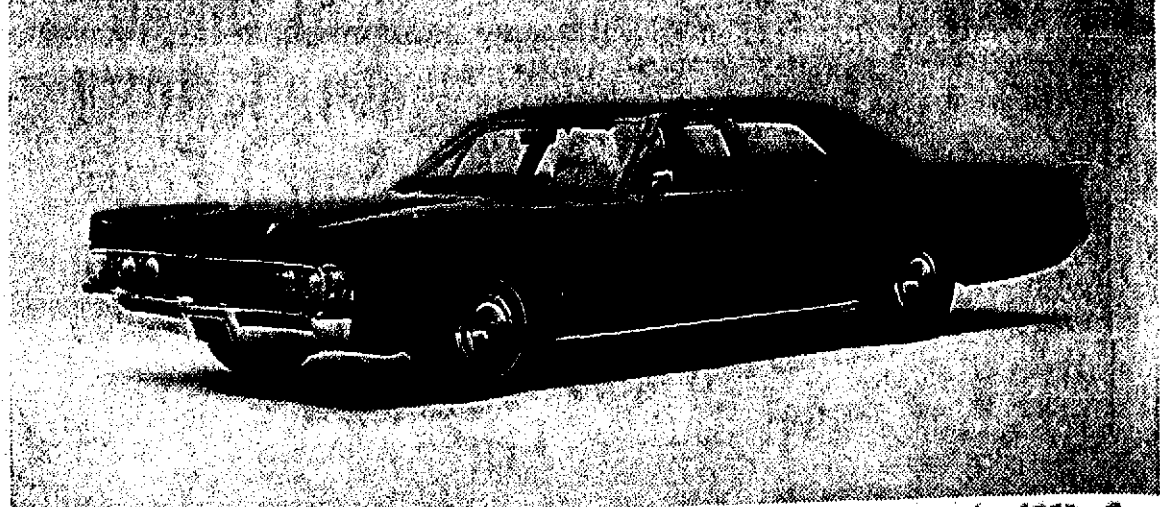

The four-in-one shot blasted off at 3:37 a.m. EDT to begin a space acrobatic act scheduled to last nearly 6½ hours, during which the booster's last stage was required to make three orbit shifts for the four satellites to spring loose into separate paths.

Twin tongues of flame from two Titan 3 strap-on motors licked a predawn sky in a launching that could be seen for miles along the east-central Florida coast. The 127-foot-tall rocket sped initially into an orbit about 113 miles high.

The booster's maneuverable upper stage reignited one hour and six minutes later to kick its quadruple payload into an elliptical orbit reaching out nearly 22,300 miles.

About three hours after liftoff, the rocket was to eject into the cigar-shaped path the first of two satellites designed to map radiation fields.

The second radiation-studying

ROOMIER, LONGER and completely new, the Mercury Monterey for 1969 offers a full range of nine models in the Monterey and Monterey Custom series. They are 221.8 inches long, an increase of almost two inches. Roadability is improved, with wheelbase increased to 124 inches and tread wider in front by one inch and in the rear by two inches. Interiors reach a new level of luxury, convenience and comfort. The new body features cleaner lines, smoother contours and the long-hood short-deck design characteristic of the Continental. Pictured above is the Mercury Monterey Custom four-door sedan.

Wallace Rests for Push North

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Rest and consultation filled third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace's day Wednesday.

Wallace, scheduled to begin a week of campaigning in several Northern, Eastern and Midwestern centers next week, consulted with advisers Wednesday regarding his platform and future campaign plans.

He has remained in Montgomery, away from the rigors of a presidential campaign, this week.

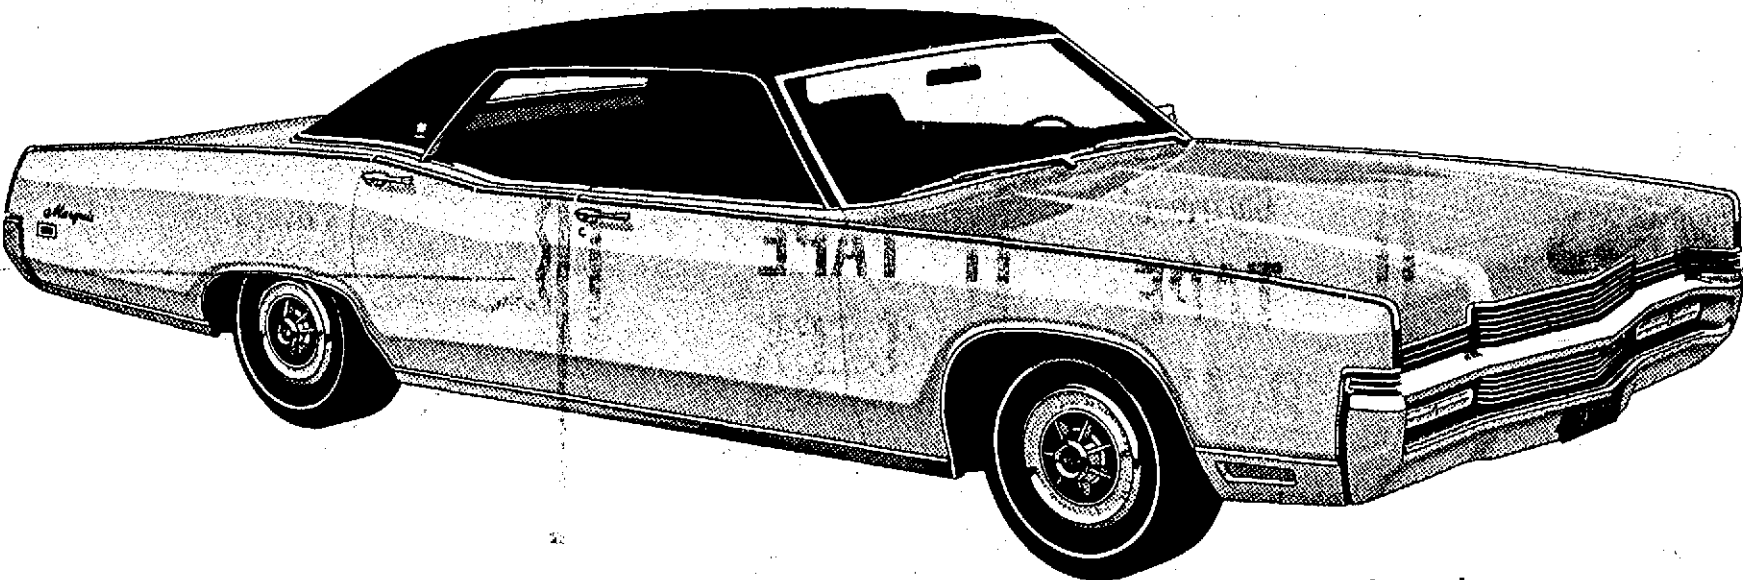

Monday, the former Alabama governor will hit the campaign trail again with a parade through downtown Chicago, then will speak in suburban Cicero, scene of racial unrest two years ago.

From there, Wallace is tentatively scheduled to visit cities in six other states and the District of Columbia by the end of the week.

In New York, aides said Wallace would hold a rally Oct. 9 in Shea Stadium and expressed confidence he would fill the 55,000-seat arena.

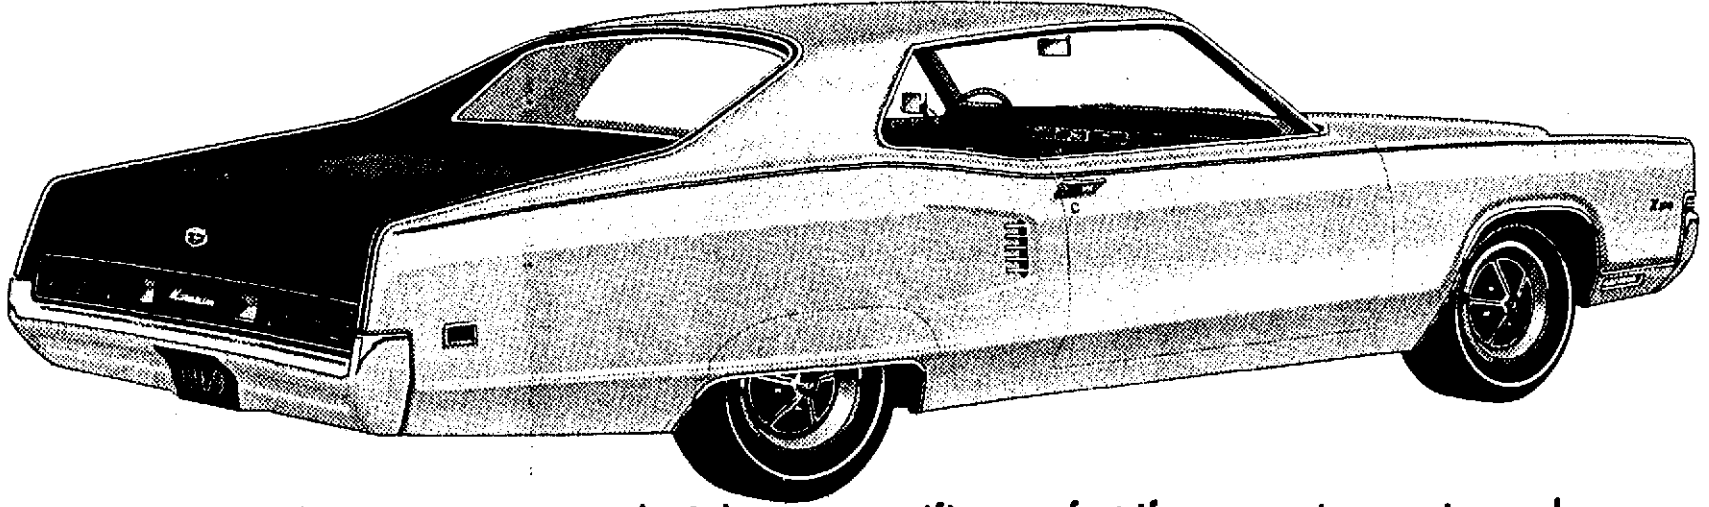

Introducing the new Lincoln-Mercury cars.

Three different cars you've never seen before, for people who have never been in our showroom before.

New Marquis. The most dramatically styled car since the Continental Mark III.

You won't see a medium-priced car like this in any other showroom. Marquis has a dramatic elegance, a majestic beauty that only the creators of the Continental Mark III could make. With this styling and the surprising price, you have no excuse to settle for a dull little car.

New Marauder X-100. Now you don't have to sacrifice comfort if you want a sporty road car.

A full-size road car with more thrills per inch than anything that has ever been in our showroom. You get a choice of bench, Twin-Comfort, or bucket seats; styled aluminum wheels, a horn that blows by squeezing the steering wheel rim, a 429-cu.in., 4-barrel V-8 and rakish fender skirts—all standard.

New American Cougar with a continental accent.

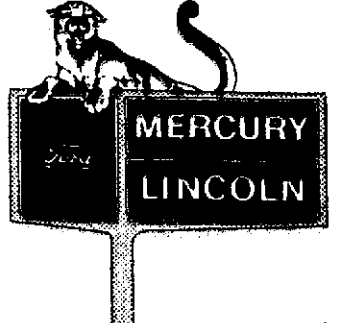

Cougar owners will tell you how much fun they are to drive. That hasn't changed. But the looks have. Compare it to the foreign sports cars. Anything the Europeans can do we can do better. Cougar is now available as a convertible. And Cougar continues to be the best-equipped luxury sports car in its class. A big 351-cubic inch V-8 is standard. So are concealed headlamps, sequential rear turn signals and bucket seats.

Your Mercury dealer leads the way with the most exciting new cars in town.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What is the origin of the expression, "not worth his salt"?
A—Lumps of salt were used as money to pay Roman soldiers. This practice led to the expression to describe a person who does not earn his wages.
Q—Where in the United States is there a replica of an Elizabethan theater?
A—At the Folger Shakespeare Library in Washington, D.C.

A strong contributor to Ford's hot-selling Fairlane line, the top-of-the-line Torino features distinctive improvements in 1969 while maintaining the popular design introduced last year. This Torino four-door sedan shows the new grille and tailamp design that highlight the exterior of the new models.

Cobra is Ford's hot new performance-oriented addition to the Fairlane line for 1969. Whether roaring through a turn at Ford's Dearborn test track (above) or taking a quarter-mile straightaway, Cobra is made for competition handling and power. Available in fastback SportsRoof (above and below) and hardtop design, Cobra models are equipped with a standard 428-cubic-inch V-8. The 428 Cobra Jet Ram-Air engine also is available.

A classic automobile that won't be upstaged even by a beautiful girl is Ford's 1969 LTD. This four-door hardtop leads off with a unique full-width recessed grille. The lower, longer car with a wider stance displays all-new design from front to rear.

WR Sees UA-LRU Merger

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller said Wednesday he thought the proposed merger of the University of Arkansas and Little Rock University was inevitable.

He said, however, the planning on how best to accomplish it should be left to professionals, such as the Commission on Co-ordination of Higher Educational Finance than to "emotional graduates."

Rockefeller, noting that the merger would require a great amount of money, said he hoped that in the next legislative session the commission would have more authority in approving or disapproving new programs.

The governor made the remarks while on a tour of the University of Arkansas Medical Center here.

Asked about the possibility of taking the Welfare Department out of politics, Rockefeller said that two state agencies had been "taken out of politics"—the Game and Fish Commission and the Highway Commission—and that he had been trying for 19 months to present evidence of what he said was malfeasance by Game and Fish commissioners.

He said just because an agency is not directly responsible to someone does not make the agency any more honest or God-fearing.

Rockefeller said he could be removed after two years if the people were dissatisfied, but he said, "You've got them for 10 years and you can't touch them. The minute you get this holier than thou attitude established—boy, oh boy, it's hard to go with."

One student at the center, a newcomer, said he had been "somewhat shocked" by the state, particularly those of Arkansas Power & Light Co.

Rockefeller said there were some publicly owned systems in the state and that "I haven't seen any giveaway by publicly owned power."

He said he wasn't completely satisfied with the work of the Public Service Commission, which regulates utility rates, and that an appointment would come up in December. He said some people didn't want to see the boat rocked in regard to the PSC.

Won't March Alone, Says Humphrey

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, apparently in as sharp a departure as he intends during the presidential campaign from Johnson administration policy, said the United States must never again "march alone" in foreign policy—and cited Southeast Asia as "a good example."

Outlining what he called a "new strategy for peace," the Democratic presidential candidate said in an address prepared for delivery at the prestigious Commonwealth Club here:

"The United States cannot play the role of global gendarme. The American people don't want it, and the rest of the world won't accept it."

Humphrey in what was intended to be the major foreign policy kickoff speech of his campaign, said that while Vietnam should not turn the United States to isolationism, in the future "we should most carefully assess our national interests, carefully define our goals and priorities, and within those interests and priorities, . . . formulate policies which will fit new American guidelines."

In Southeast Asia, significantly, Humphrey listed as the first "basic future guideline," that those in need help themselves.

Equally significant was his second listing that "regional and multilateral responsibility" should follow that step and last of all—there should be "selective American assistance."

The vice president, who has said he is in "the fight of my life" against Richard M. Nixon, his Republican opponent, obviously hopes his San Francisco address would win dissident Democrats who were followers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

But perhaps more pertinently, he hoped it would rank with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's pledge of "I shall go to Korea" in his 1952 campaign.

While saying, in effect, that if elected he would permit no future Vietnam, Humphrey also talked about ending the war there:

"We can have peace. We shall have peace. That is my pledge to the American people in this campaign."

In what apparently calculated to be a further dramatic gesture, Humphrey said that one of his first steps if elected president would be to mark the 25th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations in 1945—its birthplace was San Francisco—

"to seek new ways of making it work for peace."

Premier of Quebec Is Stricken

MANICOUAGAN, Que. (AP) — Premier Daniel Johnson died today while visiting a giant power project here.

Death was apparently due to a heart attack.

Johnson, 53, had suffered a heart attack this summer and recuperated in Bermuda.

He was scheduled to go to Paris Oct. 11 for talks with President Charles de Gaulle.

Pueblo Men Filmed by N. Korea

BERLIN (AP) — Films prepared by the North Korean government show the crew of the captured U.S. spy ship and their skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher.

In one, a voice said to be Bucher's told a news conference, he and his men "are criminals who committed espionage and hostile acts after having intruded into your territorial waters. We are now most sincerely repentant of those crimes."

Two U.S. television networks, the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System, showed excerpts from the films which run a total of an hour and 40 minutes. They were supplied by the North Korean Embassy in East Berlin. One details the alleged "aggression" of the ship; the other shows Bucher and some of his men at a news conference and the captives' daily routine.

NBC also broadcast an interview with Mrs. Bucher, filmed at her San Diego, Calif., home after she watched the North Korean films.

"He looked very thin," Mrs. Bucher said of her husband. "I suppose anybody after living eight months like they have lived would look the same way or worse."

After an opening sequence in which some crew members are shown shivering as they came ashore, their hands raised in surrender after their capture, the sailors are seen deeply tanned, playing basketball and volleyball in an outdoor stadium.

dium.

A commentator emphasizes repeatedly that the men get the best of food, "a balanced diet" and medical care as well as "one hour daytime sports regularly."

During the news conference sequence, which was filmed Aug. 13 in Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, Bucher thanks North Korea for giving him the opportunity to speak and says the crew requested the news conference "in order to have your assistance in realizing our earnest desires for repatriation."

North Korea has said repeatedly that the 82 Pueblo crewmen will not be released until the U.S. government admits the ship violated North Korean waters, apologizes for the violation and gives assurance that it won't happen again. The U.S. government has refused, saying it has no evidence that the ship trespassed but proposing an investigation by a neutral third party.

Interracial Wedding Ban Held Invalid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An 1838 Arkansas law that prohibited interracial marriage was declared unconstitutional Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge J. Smith Henley.

The ruling came on a suit filed by a Negro man and a white woman. The suit asked that the court direct Pulaski County Clerk R. S. Peters to issue them a marriage license.

Michael Higgins and Susan Lane filed the suit Sept. 9 after Peters refused to grant them a marriage license.

Classifying of Highways Is Urged

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller Wednesday urged the state Highway Commission to propose a highway classification act for the 1969 General Assembly.

The governor said if the commission didn't, he would if he is re-elected.

The 1967 legislature defeated Rockefeller's highway classification proposal. He said he believed that the commission's support of such a bill would help it gain passage.

The governor, speaking to the commission for less than 10 minutes, also asked the commission to give him an informal report on their thinking about the highway needs of the state.

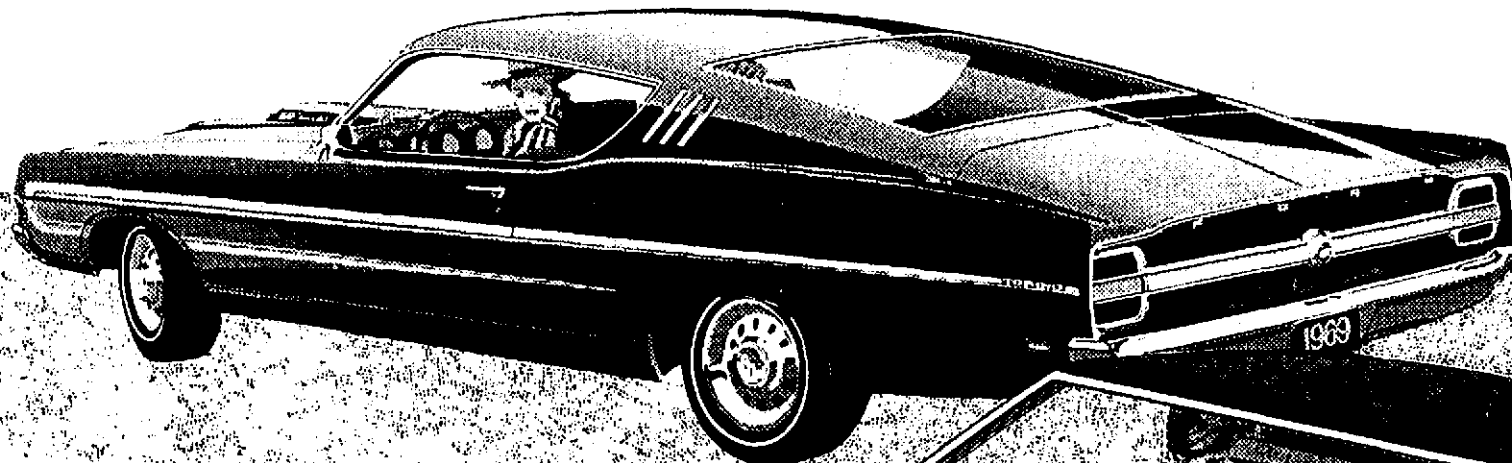

Rockefeller said he specifically wanted the commission to think about means of financing highway construction, including the possibility of a bond issue.

Cancel Road Bids for October

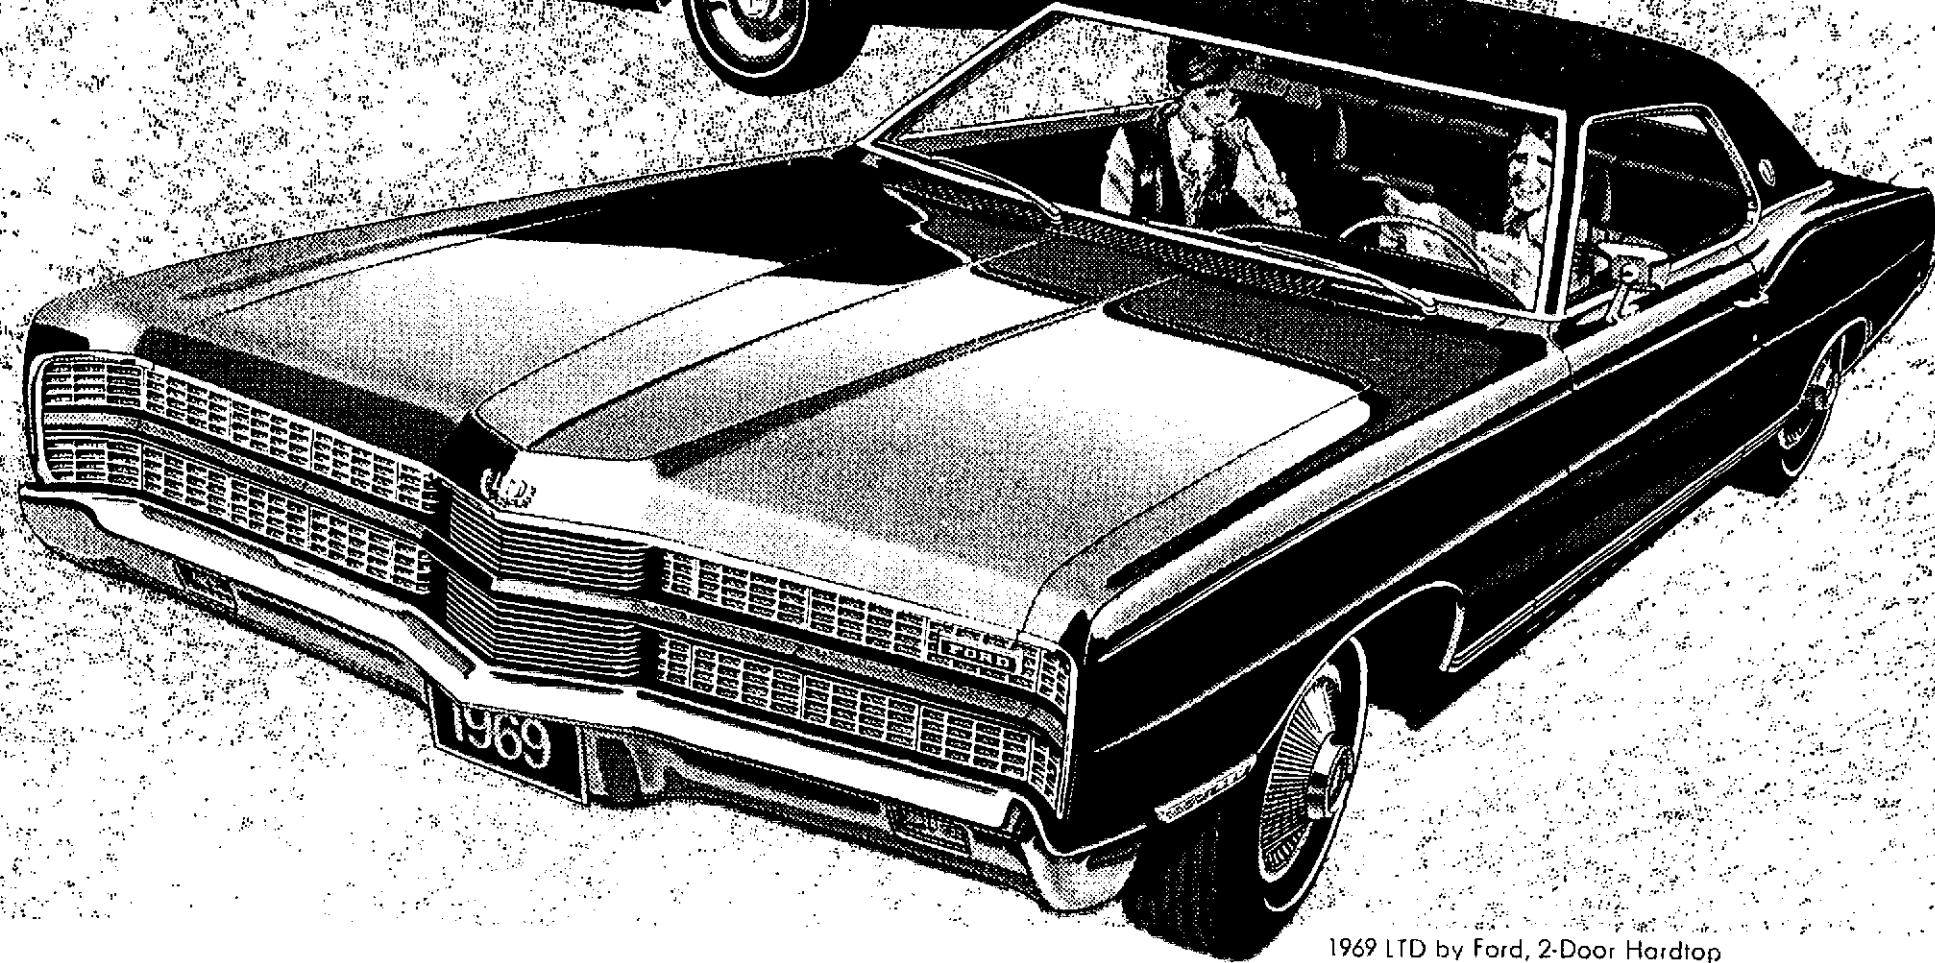

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Highway Commission Wednesday canceled its October bidding because of a freeze on the disbursement of federal highway matching funds.

Officials of the federal Bureau of Public Roads said the state's allotment might not be free in November and that it might not be released in time to advertise for bids in December.

U.N. Leans to Hanoi, But Hanoi Deaf

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

"Q. What do you feel about the recent proposal... tending to bring the problem of the Vietnam war before the United Nations?"

"A. We have always declared that the U.N. organization does not have to busy itself with the Vietnam affair."

"Q. What is the basic reason for this attitude?"

"A. We deem that this organization is an instrument in the hands of the United States."

The interview took place less than a year ago in Hanoi. A French journalist was questioning Pham Van Dong, the premier of North Vietnam.

The way Secretary-General U Thant sees it, a vote of the U.N. General Assembly would show the international community in favor of a halt to the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Thus, if such a vote were taken and turned out the way the secretary-general predicts North Vietnam would stand to benefit from the action of an organization it has repeatedly denounced and rejected.

For a long time, echoing their Red Chinese neighbors, the North Vietnamese have made no secret of their scorn for the United Nations. Any suggestion of an attempt to seek a U.N. role in Vietnam was indignantly rejected.

Thant himself had made such an effort. In March 1967 he sent a note to all parties in the conflict. This suggested a three-step approach to peace, through a truce, preliminary talks and reconvening of the 1954 Geneva conference. While this did not suggest a direct role for the United Nations as such, a role would be implicit in Thant's own inspiration for such a procedure. Hanoi underscored this in a curt rejection.

"The Vietnam problem is no concern of the United Nations and the United Nations has no right to interfere in any way on the Vietnam question," said the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry.

Thant did not give up. The United States welcomed his proposals, although stipulating that in any talks, the government of South Vietnam would have to be involved and the interests of allies of the United States would have to be taken into account.

U.S. Favored in Olympic Short Events

By JOHN DE LA VEGA
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Considering the mighty array of American sprinters, most track experts are conceding the gold medals to the Yanks in all the short events of the Olympics Games next month.

But not all. There are two Caribbean countries that have every intention of spoiling that dream—Jamaica and Cuba.

A man with definite ideas along that line is Herb McKenley, a former Olympic champ and now the coach of the Jamaicans.

His array of speedsters is headed by Lennox Miller, who has clocked 10 seconds flat for 100 meters and 9.2 for 100 yards while attending the University of Southern California this spring. The 10 flat equals the listed world record, although three Americans—Jim Hines, Charlie Greene and Ronnie Ray Smith—have 9.9's up for recognition. The 100-yard mark is 9.1.

For running mates on Jamaica's 400-meter relay team, Miller will have Pablo McNeil, a recent graduate of Los Angeles' Pepperdine College, Mike Fray, who attended Mesa Junior College, Ariz., and an amazing youngster, 16-year old Don Quarrie, a high school junior who has done 10.3.

"I fully realize our times aren't as good as the Americans," admits McKenley, who won the gold medal at 400 meters in the 1952 Olympiad at Helsinki after finishing second in the 1948 London Games.

"None of the Americans, fast as they are, have had much experience at relay running. Passing the baton can be a difference of two or three yards, and there's three of them."

"I don't have that problem and our passing is getting better every day," exclaimed the still lithe, but slightly greying McKenley.

The Cubans could be just as dangerous. They have a built-in anchor man in Enrique Figueroa, runner-up to Bob Hayes at Tokyo in 1964, who is among the many who have run 10 flat.

Two other Cubans, Pablo Montes and Eremis Ramirez have sped 10.1, and Juan Morales is a 10.2 man. An outstanding reserve is Barbaro Bando, a 17-year-old who has done 10.3.

The Cubans twice have raced 39.2 in the relay and are confident of slicing a half second off that in the Games with all the competition.

What will it take to win?

McKenley believes 9.9 will do it, "but I won't try to select the individual. It will be a matter of inches in the finals, and I'm confident my man Miller will be right there."

As for the relay, the Jamaicans have sped a practice 39.2 with leadoff man McNeil not even using blocks.

"I'm sure we can put together a 38.5 race," says McKenley. "On paper the Americans could run even faster, but they could botch it, too. They did it in Rome, remember."

Economics Is Crime Key, Not Guns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The murder rate in this country is connected more to social, economic and cultural conditions than to the availability of guns, the President's commission on violence has been told.

Daniel Glaser, a sociologist from Rutgers University told the commission Wednesday that the poor and under educated have the highest incidents of homicide.

Deaths from violent means were much higher in the rural South and the northern urban ghettos than in the middle class areas of cities and suburbs, he said.

When asked whether states with strict gun control laws had lower violent death rates, Glaser indicated not necessarily. Patterns of living affected the homicide rate much more than controls of guns, he said.

However, Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach told the commission Wednesday that stronger firearms controls are needed. He said the bans on mail order sales of guns approved by Congress do not go far enough.

Katzenbach, former attorney general, testified most murders are committed within the family or among friends. "You could make the case that you are safer from murder at 4 a.m. in Central Park than you are at home in bed," he said.

Katzenbach predicted the crime rate will continue to rise the next few years because the proportion of the population in their teens and early 20s—the age group which commits the greatest number of crimes—will

Ford Denies Giving Aid to Wallace

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford denies suggesting GOP congressional candidates may support third party candidate George C. Wallace if that would avoid hurting their campaigns.

Ford called a news conference to clarify his position Wednesday after Richard M. Nixon's high command made clear it would have no part of such a pitch.

What he was talking about in Winston-Salem, N.C., Monday, Ford said, was candidates GOP representatives feel they must support if the presidential election is thrown into the House, not what candidates they should support before the election.

He had said in Winston-Salem: "We want all of them to support the national ticket if they can, but if they can't because of local sentiment we will understand."

Ford told the news conference Tuesday that what he meant was:

"We tell our candidates we want them to enthusiastically support Richard Nixon between now and November."

"But if it goes to the House they will have to use their judgement and conscience as representatives, if they come from districts that have gone for Wallace."

Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, put in that "We would make every effort to see that Republican in the House vote for Nixon."

Both Ford and Rhodes predicted a Nixon sweep that would foreclose any possibility of the election going to the House.

Ford was quoted in Winston-Salem, N.C., where he went to boost the campaigns of Republican congressional candidates, as saying "We want all the candidates to support the national ticket. But if they can't because of local sentiment, we will understand."

Katzenbach questioned the emphasis he said was being placed on order in the concern with law and order in this year's campaign. He said third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace sullies the phrase "law and order" when he uses it.

The former Justice Department official, who faced Wallace at the door to the University of Alabama when Wallace tried to block integration of the school in 1963, told the panel:

"When the governor of a state ignores a court order and then goes and preaches law and order, that term is as denigrated as it can be."

S. Viet Nam Hits Thant Maneuver

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today U.N. Secretary-General U Thant violated the neutrality expected of him by calling for a halt to all U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said in a statement, "By asking one of the parties of the Vietnam conflict to yield new unilateral concessions without the other party showing a desire to de-escalate the war, the secretary-general of the United Nations has departed from the attitude of neutrality which is expected of him."

"His initiative will incite Hanoi to become more intransigent and will serve to prolong the talks in Paris instead of getting down to issues. The results will be contrary to those that U Thant seeks."

"The recommendations of the United Nations should not penalize the victim of aggression, South Vietnam, which is a member of specialized U.N. agencies, while profiting the aggressor, North Vietnam, which has repeatedly denied the competence of the United Nations to resolve the Vietnam conflict."

Cave drawings show such early shaving tools as clam shells, shark's teeth and sharpened flints, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Ford Hikes Car Prices 1.6 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. announced Wednesday a 1.6 per cent increase in prices for its new models, which was in line with the General Motors increase and much less than the Chrysler Corp. boost.

Officials of Chrysler, third largest of the automakers but first to announce its increase in prices for 1969 models, were reported studying Ford and GM pricing lists to determine whether to cut back on their boosts.

Ford said its list price increase would average 1.6 per cent.

Nixon Shaves His Claim on Border Area

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Richard M. Nixon apparently is scaling down his Border State victory claims in the presidential race in recognition of the growing threat of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in the South.

Nixon expressed confidence shortly after his nomination that he could carry almost all of the states that ring the Deep South, but the Republican nominee now is counting only Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky and Virginia as safely in his column.

He says he thinks he has a chance of carrying North Carolina, Georgia and Texas, but is less positive than he seemed a month ago.

Admittedly, he has found Wallace's third-party candidacy stronger than he expected in the South. He contends, however, that Wallace's support is falling off in the North, where the GOP nominee is talking of something approaching a sweep of the large industrial states.

Nixon, taking his campaign into Kentucky today on his way to Tennessee and Florida, says his major opponent in the South is Wallace and not Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee.

He has forecast that Wallace is likely to make the best third party showing since Robert M. La Follette's effort in 1924. But Nixon remains firm in the belief that the election will be settled at the polls and not in the House of Representatives.

His answer to Wallace in the South is to campaign vigorously there. He plans to go into Atlanta, Ga., and hopes that Humphrey also will campaign in the Deep South.

Nixon obviously is puzzled by the political situation in Texas, where President Johnson has made his only public appeal for support of Humphrey's candidacy. The thought that Wallace could split the anti-Johnson popular vote and permit Humphrey to take that state's 25 electoral votes is disturbing the Republican camp.

There are some worrying reports about Wallace's strength in Tennessee, with 11 electoral votes, and in Florida, which casts 14.

In his Western campaigning, Nixon has been trying to rivet Humphrey to the Johnson record. He insists that record compares very unfavorably to that of the Eisenhower administration in which he served as vice president.

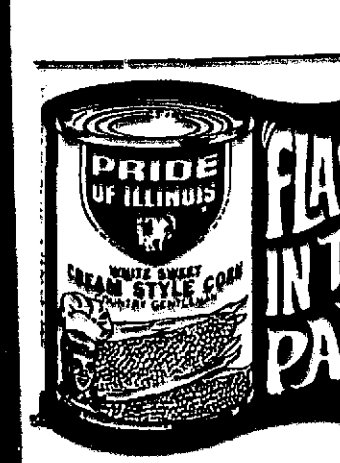

Speaking to a responsive crowd, which filled the street for a city block in Denver Wednesday, Nixon tried to hang the blame for riots in American cities on the Democratic administration.

"Is he proud of the fact that under this administration a violent mob burned down great sections of America's capital—something that hasn't been done to Washington, D.C., since the British troops left 145 years ago?" he asked.

"No mob tried to burn down Washington, D.C., while Dwight Eisenhower was in the White House," he said.

FLASH IN THE PAN

Earlier this week, GM announced an increase of 1.6 per cent of $49 per car average, which was approved by President Johnson. The Chrysler increase—2.9 per cent of an average of $84 per car—was announced last week and drew criticism from White House advisers.

Earlier Wednesday Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said he had information collected by auto critic Ralph Nader which indicated "enormous profit margins" are enjoyed by the auto firms.

In announcing higher prices for 1969 models, Ford said that "labor rates will be up more than five per cent in the coming model year," and that "prices of key materials such as steel, aluminum, and copper have risen significantly."

Commenting on Nelson's report before Ford announced its prices, Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the United Auto Workers, put labor costs in auto production at 29 per cent.

"If you have a $3,000 car, the labor cost would be roughly $870," said Mazey.

Pointing to what he termed the "tremendous profit" made by the auto companies, Mazey said, "they could reduce the price of a car by $100 and still make more profit than the average manufacturing concern in the U.S.A."

Ford's new list prices do not include the seven per cent federal excise tax or dealers handling and preparation charges. The company said these would make the increase listed in showrooms $50.

Chrysler officials said they would study Ford prices before making a final decision on the cost of their new cars. For the last two years Chrysler has announced higher new model prices then reduced those prices following smaller increases by GM.

The smallest of the four U.S. automakers, American Motors, has not announced its prices for 1969 models but is expected to do so later this week or early next week.

All new prices announced by the Big Three did not reflect cost of front seat head restraints which federal regulations will require on all cars built after Jan. 1, 1969. Ford and GM both suggested retail list prices for the head restraints of $16, while Chrysler suggested $26.

Chimp Shakes Up Chicago With Antics

CHICAGO (AP) — Residents of a North Side neighborhood have been seeing a lot of monkey antics lately.

Traffic comes to a standstill along busy Clark Street many afternoons as Mr. Jiggs—a 4-foot-tall, 90-pound chimpanzee—skates about on his daily errands.

"I thought it was a hippie," a startled woman pedestrian exclaimed Wednesday as Mr. Jiggs sailed past her in his red jacket and black trousers, carrying a bag of groceries.

Mr. Jiggs just smiled and waved.

Grocery shopping is one of his favorite errands. He likes to test the freshness of the fruit with a quick bite.

The chimp, whose home is in New York, has been living in a North Side apartment with his owner, Ron Winters, while he performs nightly in a downtown hotel.

Life In Arkansas

By TOMMY YATES

To some, wanting to take medicine is like wanting to step in front of a fast-moving freight train. And some would rather sweat it out than gulp down a tablespoon of germ-fighting liquid.

You know the nothings—wrong-with-me type who shivers to think of taking, say, castor oil. And he would probably go completely nuts if he had a castor oil plant growing outside his bedroom window.

For Mrs. Martha Gill of Jonesboro, however, the thought must never have entered her mind.

The seed of the castor bean plant has long been used for medical purposes, and now many are growing the annual herb for decoration.

Mrs. Gill planted some of the seeds last spring to shade a window, and now finds she has a giant plant that is reaching the roof of the two-story brick house.

Mrs. Gill told the Jonesboro Sun that she had never known one of the plants to reach the height of the one in her yard. The plant is 18 feet tall. In the tropics, the plant often reaches 40 feet in height, but elsewhere, grown as a herb or for decoration, rarely exceeds 15 feet.

The plant has large, smooth leaves with five to 10 lobes and often are three feet in width.

Mrs. Gill said the plants are easily grown from seed in any well-drained sandy or clay loam soil. She said, however, anyone who intends to plant some might watch and hopefully avoid having a stalk next to his house that resembles a bushy telephone pole.

U.S. Won't Oppose Red China to UN

By WILLIAM N. OATES

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States told the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday night it will not oppose assembly debate on membership for Red China, but it predicted Peking's supporters will fail once again.

U.S. Ambassador William B. Buffum told the assembly's steering committee his government will not oppose inclusion on the assembly agenda of "restoration of the Lawful Rights of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations," an item that 11 Communist and non-aligned countries submitted with a view to having the assembly oust Nationalist China and seat Communist China.

Buffum said the title was "clearly tendentious and prejudicial," and he added: "We are confident that, as in the past, this question will again be decided on its merits and that the assembly will once more reject the effort to deprive the Republic of (Nationalist) China of its proper role in the United Nations."

The closest the Red Chinese came to victory was a tie 47-47 vote in 1965. Last year the assembly voted 58-45 against Red China, with 17 members abstaining.

The Soviet Union was not among those countries that proposed the question for the agenda this year. But in the steering committee, despite its ideological quarrel with Red China, it supported the campaign to admit Peking.

Over Soviet opposition, the committee voted 17-3 with 4 abstentions that the agenda should include the annual report of the U.N. Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea.

With the Russians again in opposition, the committee voted 16-3 with 5 abstentions for a U.S. proposal to combine three items on Korea under the general heading "The Korean Question."

'Sound of Music'
World's Greatest;
Letters Delayed

More people have paid more money to see "The Sound of Music" than for any other entertainment piece in the history of the world.

I saw and heard it last night for the first time when it opened at the Saenger theater for a run through Saturday. What shall I say at this late day of a picture that has enthralled millions?

It has Rodgers and Hammerstein music, the glory of the Austrian Alps in full color, and a most human story. But there is something else about "The Sound of Music."

It's the voice of kindness in a world grown cynical and cruel. It has heroes and heroines, in a day when so many books and dramas boast that there's not a "lovable" character in the entire cast.

And the story is essentially a true-life report. It is based on the experiences of the Trapp family, top folk-song group of Austria who had to leave their homeland and find refuge in our New England when Hitler seized Vienna.

But it's not a war story. The Nazis move in only at the very end. And at the very end you found yourself thinking last night of a deadly parallel — the Russian march into Czechoslovakia.

"The Sound of Music," however, is an altogether happy story. You'll know what I mean when you see it — the picture that has outdrawn "Gone With the Wind" and every other.

This column has been missing for a couple of days — the usual casualty when the newspaper is confronted with Stock Show Week, a full program of local pictures, and what have you.

We are delayed in the publication of several letters that have come in on the local option election, but we'll get to them shortly.

Beautifulizing Week for High School

The week of September 23 is Beautifulizing Week at HHS. The theme this year: Clean-Up Campaign '68.

The campaign was kicked off by announcements of the week's schedule. Tuesday, during the noon hour, a rally was held in the Student Center. Speeches were made by the Litter Critter, a Dictacrat, whose role was played by Dan Stuart and Mr. Clean, a Neatnik, played by Jimmy Alford.

The two candidates gave the pros and cons of why the students should vote for them. Students voted at noon Tuesday and Wednesday. Each vote cost five cents. All money collected will be used by the Student Council to help pay for the carpet which has been bought for the auditorium. This is the Student Council's 1969 project.

Thursday the teachers cleaned out their rooms and set their trash cans in the hall. A committee of Student Council members then graded the trash. The teachers with best and most trash won the honor of being Mr. and Mrs. Clean. Room of the Month was also awarded at this time.

Members of the Student Council Beautifulizing Committee are Mary Beth Millican, chairman, Rusty Quillen, Robyn Callaway, Tim Ross, and Becky Moore.

Mild, Cool Forecast for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mild days and cool nights under clear to fair skies are expected in Arkansas through Saturday as a cold front dominates the nation's weather picture. The high pressure system stretches from Vermont to Louisiana and Texas with little movement indicated. Rainfall reported around the state in the 24-hour period that ended at 7 a.m. today included 0.61 inches at Little Rock and 0.50 inches at Walnut Ridge. Low temperatures reported around the state this morning ranged from 44 degrees at Fayetteville to 51 at Pine Bluff and Texarkana.

Romania Waits, Eye on Russia

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Light traffic, Romanian architecture and dusty, tree-lined streets give Romania's capital a deceptive air of calm. Behind it lies fear of occupation by Soviet troops and tanks.

Officials do not speak of the fear. President Nicolae Ceausescu goes his own independent way in foreign policy. That is what makes Soviet invasion a possibility. But he keeps a tight Communist rein on press and government. That policy should reassure Moscow.

Though Ceausescu denounced the Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia, since then he has avoided irritating the Kremlin.

The Soviet Union pulled its last troops out of Romania in 1958, after an occupation of more than 13 years. A few years later, Romania began to show signs of independence.

Now it has virtually withdrawn from cooperation with the Warsaw military pact.

But Romania should have less reason to fear Soviet invasion than Czechoslovakia had.

Strategically, it presents no threat to Soviet security. Czechoslovakia has long borders with West Germany and Austria, only a short border with the Soviet Union. Romania has a long border with Russia, no border at all with the West.

Nevertheless, the nervous Romanian leadership is reported doing fine.

312 Enemy Killed in Coast Action

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — American armor, infantry and helicopter gunships of the Americal Division on Wednesday pushed their enemy kill to 312 in two days of fast-moving battle on South Vietnam's northern coast.

The Americal troops reported 92 of the enemy killed Tuesday and another 220 Wednesday in the fight which began when a North Vietnamese rocket slammed into a patrolling armored personnel carrier.

U.S. casualties in the two days of fighting were four dead and 48 wounded, the U.S. Command said.

The enemy force was presumed to be from the North Vietnamese 2nd Division, which for many months has operated in the battle area of rolling foothills and rice paddies five miles southwest of Tam Ky, the capital of Quang Tin Province.

After the initial contact Tuesday, the Americal command rushed in reinforcements, artillery was called in and helicopter gunships went into action.

What a Candidate Hears on Stump Shouldn't Be Told

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a political candidate gets tired of hearing: "We'll have to get your teeth capped over the weekend, Jim. You don't seem to have a winning smile."

"It takes either money or charm—and we're short on both."

"Why, young man, I well remember voting for your daddy 30 years ago. He was a loser, too."

"Here's a touchy problem, Jim. After watching your last TV show, 27 of our campaign contributors wrote in and demanded their money back."

"Just smile, sir, and say 'cheese' over and over till I tell you to stop."

"I announced our press conference would be held promptly at 3:30 and here it is 4 o'clock already, and nobody's here. If nobody shows up in another half hour, I'll put out an announcement saying we had to

Young Voters in U.S. Outnumbered 9 to 1, Says Census Bureau

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Behind all the public manifestations of young America's political power and influence stands the actual voting strength of the young, and it adds up to this: They're outnumbered, 9 to 1.

The U.S. Census Bureau estimates that only 11.7 million of all persons of voting age for the November election will be 24 or younger—able generally for the first time to cast a presidential ballot.

The figure represents just 10 per cent of the 116.6 million Americans old enough to vote. Against the backdrop of Chicago's demonstrations, campus unrest and swarms of youthful workers, are these cold statistics compiled by government and private research agencies on the youth vote:

Participation—Young voters have historically diminished their impact by turning out on election day at a lower rate than their elders.

In the 1964 presidential election, for example, only 51 per cent of the 21-to-24-year-olds voted. That compared to 65 per cent of the persons between 25 and 34, and 73 per cent of the persons 35 and over. The average voter is 45 years old.

Unity—Young voters are subject to many influences besides age on their voting behavior: parents, education, economic status and the like. In recent presidential elections they have swung in the same direction as their elders, although slightly to the Democratic side of the over-all population.

Education—The tendency is to picture young voters as ranks of college students. But only about 16 per cent of the 21-24 age group is on campus and the greater part of it never has been. About 3.7 million of the nation's 6.7 million college students are too young to vote even though the voting age drops below 21 in Alaska, Hawaii, Kentucky and Georgia.

Furthermore, the 1964 participation record even of college-trained 21-to-24-year-olds was worse than the turnout of 45-to-64-year-olds who had only an eighth-grade education.

Despite the young voter's record, each major party devotes countless time and energy to enlist his support. For the politicians, more than a vote in November is at stake. There's the chance to recruit volunteer labor for the foot-soldier jobs of politics, and the prospect of winning a young voter's lifetime allegiance.

As usual, the Young Republicans and Young Democrats handle the job of wooing the young voters. Somewhat parallel but in business only for the campaign are youth divisions of Citizens for Nixon and Citizens for Humphrey.

Today (Thursday) is the deadline for filing for the three positions on the Hope City Manager Board for the election November 5.

Candidates must be qualified voters of the city, at least 30 years of age, and must submit petitions with the signature of 50 or more qualified voters. The petitions must be filed with the city clerk before 5 p. m. today, September 26.

The City Directors serve without pay for four year terms. There are seven members of the Board. Three positions are open this year, and the terms of the other four directors do not expire until 1970.

Filibuster on Fortas Has Begun

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An opponent of Abe Fortas for chief justice said today that more than a majority of the Senate may vote against cutting off debate on a motion to take up the controversial nomination.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said that as many as 52 of the 100 senators are leaning against voting to put the Senate's antifilibuster rule into effect.

The Senate took up the Fortas nomination Wednesday and opponents began an apparent filibuster against considering it.

Baker told newsmen he personally has talked to 36 senators who are committed to voting

Housing Units Get Names

In a special meeting at the Community Center, 720 Texas St., the Commissioners of the Housing Authority selected names for the administration building and the four sites. It was decided that the administration building and four sites were to be named for the mayor, city board of directors, and city manager serving at the time the Housing Authority was brought into being.

The administration building at 720 Texas Street will now be known as the Douglas Building named for Frank Douglas, mayor at that time.

Site A, bounded by Mockingbird Lane and West Seventh St., adjoining Fair Park, will be known as Frazier — Andrews Apartments, named for George Frazier and Sam Andrews.

Site E, bounded by M c k St., Texas St., Seventh St., with Park Drive through the center, will be known as Baber-Young Apartments, named for Dewey Baber and L.W. Young. Mr. Young is deceased.

Site H, bounded by Spruce, Berry, Edgewood and Hickory Sts., will be known as a Robison — Medders Apartments, named for George Robison and Garland Medders.

Site J, bounded by Oak, Bell, Hickory and Laurel Sts., will be known as the Williams Apartments, named for LaGrone Williams.

These apartments are available to elderly and low-income families. Applications are taken at the Douglas Building, 720 Texas Street.

The reserve unit was one of many activated when North Korea seized the U.S.S. Pueblo last spring.

U.S. Offers Peace Plan to Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A four-part plan for peace between Israel and the Arab nations has been suggested to the United States by the Soviet Union, American officials say.

The plan, one of several approaches in several weeks, according to the officials, calls for Israel to pull back to the boundaries that existed before the six-day war last summer with the Arab countries.

In turn, the Arabs would declare an end to the state of war that has existed with Israel since the Jewish nation was established in 1947. The U.S. officials said there has been no response to the Soviet overtures and they refused to go into more detail.

The other points of the plan call for a strong United Nations force in the area to guarantee peace and a declaration by the United States, Russia, France and Great Britain that they will not tolerate new fighting.

Race Rioting Hits Boston 3rd Night

BOSTON (AP) — Violence, looting and robberies erupted Wednesday for a third night and one man died after, police said, he was beaten and robbed by five young Negroes.

Nine policemen and 11 other persons were treated for injuries at City Hospital.

Police said bands of Negro teenagers began roaming the streets after a Black Power rally attended by 700 persons in Franklin Park.

Twelve youths between 17 and 21 years old were arrested on assault charges.

One man was shot and seriously wounded in a holdup. A 73-year-old clerk was slugged with a baseball bat by a gang which invaded a shoe store.

The dead man was identified as Chesley R. Batchelder, 58. He died before reaching a hospital and the cause of death was not determined immediately.

Gov. John A. Volpe notified his office that because of his concern for the situation he was returning from Los Angeles where he had been campaigning for the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Former School Committee Chairman Louise Day Hicks was chased by about 100 Negro youths who broke away from the Black Power rally.

Mrs. Hicks out of public office now after an unsuccessful try for mayor in 1967, was watching the rally with a woman companion when the youths spotted her and ran toward the women, shouting, "Get Mrs. Hicks!" The two women fled unharmed.

Wednesday's disturbances were centered in the Negro areas of Roxbury and Dorchester.

Two liquor stores, a television shop and a finance company were among the businesses looted. Police said they were sprayed by ammonia, and hit by rocks and bottles.

Police Supt. Herbert F. Mullooney said that by calling in 400 off-duty officers the department was able to assign 900 men to the troubled area.

336th Bn. Leaves for Vietnam

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 336th battalion of the Army Reserve departed today for Da Nang, Vietnam, a reliable source said.

The unit, composed of at least 122 Arkansans and several Californians, were based at Fort Carson, Colo. The unit voted to call itself the Razorback unit.

The course said the unit was divided into two groups with one leaving at 5 a.m. today and the other to leave when the first group arrives in Da Nang.

An Army spokesman at Fort Carson said he could neither confirm or deny the report and said such an announcement would be made only after such a unit arrived in Vietnam.

The reserve unit was one of many activated when North Korea seized the U.S.S. Pueblo last spring.

No Reduction in Vietnam Is Word

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford says the United States will continue to build toward a 549,000 troop ceiling on Vietnam and has no intention of lowering that level in the foreseeable future.

That was Clifford's answer Wednesday to a Republican congressman's prediction that some 90,000 U.S. troops would be returned from Vietnam by June regardless of who is president.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., who is traveling with Republican Sen. Frank Chafee, said "See NO REDUCTION (on page two)"

UP-TO-DATE Olympic pool under construction in Mexico City is being built using some old-fashioned methods. Here, a workman carries tar in buckets hung from a makeshift yoke bar across his shoulders. Previously, the tar was melted in an oil-drum oven and mixed with an old mop. Pool must be completed in time for the mid-October games.
